way on his wheel and is confident that he would have seen them had they been there at the time of his passing which was about 9 o'clock. He passed the spot Monday afternoon about 3 o'clock and saw the bags but did not realize their significance and paid no attention to them. Later he began considering that he should have reported his find and this he did yesterday morning. The post office inspector was wired of the burglary Monday morning but thus far has not put in an appearance to look over the ground.

The local officers have been working on the case but thus far they have happened on to no clues which will warrant them in making any arrests. Marshal Peterson gave out the information yesterday that three suspicious characters had been around the town for some days and that he had seen nothing of them since the robbery.

Work of Imposters Soliciting Alms

Benevolent Association Is Needed Organization.

The season of the year has arrived when the regular visit of circulators of petitions asking for money to take them to some town where relatives are located or for some other such reasons may be expected. Monday a deaf mute or a man claiming to be a deaf mute circulated a petition asking for money with which he expected to start a shoe repairing shop in the town. The petition was quite readily signed and many of the business men contributed to the cause of a shoe repair shop. However, the man later in the evening changed his mind about establishing a repair shop and started in to further the temperance cause by attempting to put the saloons out of business by drinking up all of the available liquor they had on hands. By night he had acquired a good sized cargo of beverage and was as fluent in his conversation as it is possible for a deaf mute to become.

It is the general opinion prevailing at this place that the practice of giving alms indiscriminately is not a good practice. There are many benevolent people in the town who would contribute liberally to a fund to be used in any needy cases and such a plan would in all probability meet the approval of practically every resident of the town.

MRS. LEWIS ILL. Mrs. W. B. Lewis is seriously ill in San Diego, is the information reaching this place yesterday. Mr. Lewis made preparations yesterday to leave for that place.

BODY SENT EAST. The remains of James D. McCormick were sent to his old home in Chicago yesterday afternoon where burial will take place. Mrs. Barclay, an aunt of the deceased, arrived here yesterday morning from her home in Pasadena and will accompany the body east.

A Reliable Medicine—NOT A NARCOTIC

Mrs. F. Marti, St. Joe, Mich., says Foley's Honey and Tar Saved her little boy's life. She writes: "Our little boy contracted severe bronchial trouble and as the doctor's medicine did not cure him I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar in which I have great faith. It cured the cough as well as the choking and gagging spells, and he got well in a short time. Foley's Honey and Tar has many times saved us much trouble and we are never without it in the house." MOVED TO PHOENIX.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Korf, after a several days visit in this city with friends, left for Phoenix yesterday where they will make their home.

HERE FOR SCHOOL.

Prof. John Lovell has arrived from his home in Boston, Mass., and will resume his position next Monday as a member of the faculty of the Evans school.

HERE FROM CASA GRANDE.

W. H. Otterson is in the city for a visit with his family. Mr. Otterson has a number of teams at work in the vicinity of Casa Grande and reports work rather lively at that place.

Your kidney trouble may be of long standing, it may be either acute or chronic, but whatever it is Foley's Kidney Remedy will aid you to get rid of it quickly and restore your natural health and vigor. HINTS FOR HOUSEWIVES ON MAKING OF CATSUPS.

Closely allied with pickles in regard to season, materials and functions, are catsup and store sauces. It is true that the modern housekeeper tends more and more to depend upon the bottled products of the factory instead of the homemade article with its individuality of flavor. It is also true that some varieties of store sauces and catsups cannot be prepared satisfactorily in the home, owing to the lack of many of the ingredients and of the means for accurate weighing and measuring needed to make the product uniform.

However, the modern kitchen still affords, in sufficient variety, the sharp, the pungent, the sweet, the acid, the spicy, the aromatic, and the nutty flavors of which to compound mild, savory, or piquant sauces, though a host of ingredients are laid aside.

The editor of the old "Almanack des Gourmands" thus defines the duty of a good sauce: "It should instantly melt itself all around the maxillary glands, call into activity each ramification of the palatine organs. If it be not relishing it is incapable of producing this effect; and it too pungent, it will deaden, instead of excite those titillations of tongue and vibrations of palate which can only be produced by the most accomplished philosophers of the mouth upon the well-trained palate of the refined gourmand."

There is an ideal for you! And store sauces and catsups, discreetly used, may aid in its attainment.

Tomato catsup is easily the leader among American sauces; but the number of flavors offered under the same name is sometimes rather bewildering. Some makers insist upon concentrated tomato flavor only, untouched by spice or accessory materials. Others add condiments until the parched palate can only guess at the original foundation flavor.

Tomato catsup No. 1.—For catsup of the first type, sound, ripe tomatoes, are cut up and closely boiled down with a little salt. When soft, they are strained and again given a long, slow simmer (with or without a little sugar and vinegar) until thick, and then put up in small jars or bottles with the precautions necessary for any canned fruit.
